

No More Restless Nights!

In today's competitive marketplace, it's more important than ever to have confidence in the people helping you put your company's insurance programs in place. You selected your insurance advisor using criteria important to your unique needs. Now your qualified selection has been confirmed because that same insurance advisor has obtained the CRIS® (Construction Risk and Insurance Specialist) certification.

Joe's not getting much sleep at home. His broker put a nightmare of an insurance program together.

Taking the time to complete CRIS shows how committed your broker is to your industry.

The CRIS continuing education program and certification will affirm the core risk competencies you need and should require of your agent or broker. Here are the courses your CRIS designee has completed:

- Commercial Auto, Surety, CIPS and Miscellaneous Lines
- Commercial Liability Insurance for Contractors
- Contractual Risk Transfer in Construction
- Property Insurance for Contractors
- Workers Compensation for Contractors

You can also rest assured knowing that CRIS has a continuing education component to maintain the specialized expertise you require.

You have made a wise choice. Now you have a Construction Risk and Insurance Specialist (CRIS) working for you.

CRIS Designees Can Bring Even More to Your Table

- Detailed and specific knowledge of the insurance needs of contractors
- Proven dedication to the construction industry
- Understanding of the industry's unique loss exposures
- Knowledge of the risk transfers implemented in construction contracts

Your needs are diverse, critical and unique. With CRIS, you'll know they are being met.
